POLICE

Washington State Accredited Agency

Your Bellingham Police Department maintains a commitment to our community by respecting the people we serve, acting with integrity and demonstrating accountability to those that we serve.

As entrusted guardians of our community, our interactions in the performance of our official duties sometimes brings us into conflict with members of society that fail to heed our community's wishes for order and peace. It is the policy of your police department that your officers may only use that amount of force that is objectively reasonable and necessary in the performance of their legal duties. Your police department's use of force policies are consistent with the laws of the United States and the State of Washington. Your police department also strives to have policies that are consistent, with identified "best practices," and contemporary scientific discovery and application.

The components for constitutional policing are training, policy and supervision. Your police department maintains the highest standards and attention to all three areas and will continue to be an agency that serves its community with commitment, vision and values.

• Incidents involving one officer:	1 / 7%	YTD 4 / 3%
• Incidents involving more than one officer:	14 / 93%	YTD 134 / 97%

According to the city's Computer-Aided Dispatch information from June 1st through June 30th of this year, your Bellingham Police officers responded to 5455 calls for service. These calls for service also included officer-initiated activities where an officer contacted someone, performed a traffic stop or witnessed an incident and were investigating further.

For fans of numbers, this means that 0.27%, or less than one-third of one percent of incidents in June resulted in your officers using lawful force against a citizen. (33346 calls this year)

Incident origin:

• Call for service from 911	11 / 73%	YTD 113 / 82%
• Self-initiated by officer(s)	4 / 27%	YTD 25 / 18%

Put into perspective with the previous information this means that in all 5455 calls for service that your police officers responded to in the month of June, only four times did an officer's self-initiated contact result in one of your officers using lawful force against a citizen.

In numbers: 0.07%, or less than one-tenth of one percent.

Reason for use of force:

• Active resistance to lawful commands	9 / 60%	YTD 102 / 74%
• Actively aggressive	1 / 7%	YTD 15 / 11%
• Assaultive	3 / 20%	YTD 16 / 11%
• Life-threatening	2 / 13%	YTD 5 / 4%

Your police officers are allowed by law to use force in the discharge of their duties.

As the information above has already shown, your police officers very rarely have to use force to accomplish their lawful objectives. The reasons listed above show that some citizens do not wish to submit to officers' lawful authority. How the citizens resist lawful actions of your officers is detailed hereafter, along with officers' responses.

• Firearm	0	YTD 0

A citizens' resistance to lawful commands can take more than one form; sometimes your officers' response to these situations necessitates finding a solution that safely resolves the situation. For example, a citizen may refuse a lawful command, then flee on foot and ultimately resist physically when located. For that one incident, three specific items are documented. In the same manner, one of your officers may give a lawful verbal command. When that lawful command is disregarded the officer may need to employ a physical control technique such as tackling a fleeing citizen. Thus, two specific items are documented.

Of note, your officers noted that for this particular data set, citizens in 14 of the 15 incidents (93%) disregarded verbal commands wherein your officers used lawful force. Citizens were more likely to offer physical resistance to lawful commands after that. Your officers used authorized physical controls like grabbing arms for handcuffing or holding folks from fleeing far more than deploying other modalities of force like TASERs or physical strikes.

Your officers used lawful force against a citizen in June in 0.27%, or less than one-third of one percent of incidents. Your police department using force to accomplish lawful objectives is a rarity.

SECTION TWO: Involved Persons' Information

The data presented in this section will provide information on the citizens involved in your police department's use of force incidents, along with information on your police officers involved in those incidents.

Injuries to Citizens due to Officers' force: 4 / 27% YTD 41 / 30%

- Two abrasions, one laceration, one TASER puncture

For the month of June, your officers used lawful force 0.27%, or less than one-third of one percent in the incidents they responded to. Of the 5455 incidents your officers responded to, only four of those contacts resulted in any kind of notable injury to a citizen.

In numbers: 0.073%, or less than one-tenth of one percent of incidents responded to by your officers resulted in an injury from your officers using lawful force against a citizen.

Citizens Transported to Hospital: 4 / 27% YTD 43 / 31%

- Two were emergent detentions for mental health; one was a precautionary measure and one was due to a prior injury

Your officers noted that in instances where they applied lawful force, two citizens appeared to be having a mental health issue that posed a danger to themselves or others. Your police department strives to have mental health issues handled by the hospital, not the jail, and thus your officers took the citizen to the hospital for the appropriate care.

Injuries to Officers:	2 / 13%	YTD 20 / 14%
Officers Transported to Hospital:	0	YTD 0
Median Age of Citizen:	35 years	32 years
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Youngest 11 , Oldest 54
Median Age of Officer:	33 years	35 years
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Youngest 22, Oldest 51

Median ages were determined to be the best descriptor in these two categories, as the reader can gain a better appreciation for the more-likely ages rather than having an average age be skewed by outliers.

In addition, this information serves as a good reminder to the fact that your officers encounter folks from all age ranges in the performance of their official duties and sometimes encounter unlawful resistance from citizens, both younger and older.

Race of Citizen

• White	7 / 47%	YTD 100 / 72%
• Black or African American	0	YTD 9 / 6%
• American Indian	5 / 33%	YTD 17 / 12%
• Hispanic	3 / 20%	YTD 11 / 8%
• Asian	0	YTD 1 / 1%

Race of Officer

• White	34 / 100%	YTD 305 / 92%
• Black or African American	0	YTD 3 / 1%
• East Indian	0	YTD 13 / 4%
• Hispanic	0	YTD 9 / 3%
• Asian	0	YTD 1 / <1%

Resident of Whatcom County / Bellingham?

• Yes	13 / 87%	YTD 130 / 94%
• No	2 / 13%	YTD 8 / 6%

Statistical analysis of police use of force often has a discussion component concerning the population demographics of the involved citizens. The reader is cautioned to remember that from a statistical basis, comparing outlying events to population demographics often will not give the reader an accurate assessment of the situation.

For example, in the month of June 94% of citizens that your officers used lawful force on were residents of either Whatcom County or the City of Bellingham.

However, do not forget that in the month of June your officers used lawful force in only 0.27%, or less than one-third of one percent of incidents. So these incidents are truly outliers and thus may not adhere to population demographics. For example in June, in order to achieve lawful objectives lawful force was used by your police department three times against persons of Hispanic ancestry, or 0.054%, or around five one-hundredths of one percent in the incidents for the month. This is nowhere near the city demographic.
