It is the policy of your police department that your officers may only use that amount of force that is objectively reasonable and necessary in the performance of their legal duties. Your police department's use of force policies are consistent with the laws of the United States and the State of Washington. Your police department also strives to have policies that are consistent, with identified "best practices," and contemporary scientific discovery and application.

The components for constitutional policing are training, policy and supervision. Your police department maintains the highest standards and attention to all three areas and will continue to be an agency that serves its community with commitment, vision and values.

These calls for service also included officer-initiated activities where an officer contacted someone, performed a traffic stop or witnessed an incident and were investigating further.

For fans of numbers, this means that 0.20%, or two-tenths of one percent of incidents in October resulted in your officers using lawful force against a citizen. (56956 calls this year)

Incident origin:

• Call for service from 911	10 / 83%	YTD 159 / 81%
• Self-initiated by officer(s)	2 / 17%	YTD 37 / 19%

Put into perspective with the previous information this means that in all 5983 calls for service that your police officers responded to in the month of October, only two times did an officer's self-initiated contact result in one of your officers using lawful force against a citizen.

In numbers: 0.03%, or three one-hundredths of one percent.

• Assaultive	2 / 17%	YTD 26 / 13%
• Life-threatening	0	YTD 5 / 3%

Your police officers are allowed by law to use force in the discharge of their duties.

As the information above has already shown, your police officers very rarely have to use force to accomplish their lawful objectives. The reasons listed above show that some citizens do not wish to submit to officers' lawful authority. How the citizens resist lawful actions of your officers is detailed hereafter, along with officers' responses.

A citizens' resistance to lawful commands can take more than one form; sometimes your officers' response to these situations necessitates finding a solution that safely resolves the situation. For example, a citizen may refuse a lawful command, then flee on foot and ultimately resist physically when located. For that one incident, three specific items are documented. In the same manner, one of your officers may give a lawful verbal command. When that lawful command is disregarded the officer may need to employ a physical control technique such as tackling a fleeing citizen. Thus, two specific items are documented.

Of note, your officers noted that for this particular data set, citizens in 12 of the 12 incidents (100%) disregarded verbal commands wherein your officers used lawful force. Citizens were more likely to offer physical resistance to lawful commands after that. Your officers used authorized physical controls like grabbing arms for handcuffing or holding folks from fleeing far more than deploying other modalities of force like TASERs or physical strikes.

Your officers used lawful force against a citizen in October in 0.20%, or two-tenths of one percent of incidents. Your police department using force to accomplish lawful objectives is a rarity.

SECTION TWO: Involved Persons' Information

The data presented in this section will provide information on the citizens involved in your police department's use of force incidents, along with information on your police officers involved in those incidents.

Injuries to Citizens due to Officers' force: 1 / 8% YTD 58 / 30%

- Abrasions

For the month of October, your officers used lawful force 0.20%, or two-tenths of one percent in the incidents they responded to. Of the 5983 incidents your officers responded to, only one of those contacts resulted in any kind of notable injury to a citizen.

In numbers: 0.02%, or two one-hundredths of one percent of incidents responded to by your officers resulted in an injury from your officers using lawful force against a citizen.

Citizens Transported to Hospital: 3 / 25% YTD 62 / 32%

- One emergent detention, one jail requirement, one alcohol hold

Your officers noted that in instances where they applied lawful force, one citizen appeared to be having a mental health issue that posed a danger to themselves or others. Your police department strives to have mental health issues handled by the hospital, not the jail, and thus your officers took the citizen to the hospital for the appropriate care.

Injuries to Officers:	1 / 8%	YTD 33 / 17%
Officers Transported to Hospital:	0	YTD 0
Median Age of Citizen:	32 years	33 years
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Youngest 19, Oldest 56</li> </ul>
Median Age of Officer:	36 years	37 years
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Youngest 26, Oldest 60</li> </ul>

Median ages were determined to be the best descriptor in these two categories, as the reader can gain a better appreciation for the more-likely ages rather than having an average age be skewed by outliers.

In addition, this information serves as a good reminder to the fact that your officers encounter folks from all age ranges in the performance of their official duties and sometimes encounter unlawful resistance from citizens, both younger and older.

Race of Citizen

• White	9 / 75%	YTD 135 / 69%
• Black or African American	1 / 8%	YTD 21 / 11%
• American Indian	2 / 17%	YTD 20 / 10%
• Hispanic	0	YTD 16 / 8%
• Asian	0	YTD 4 / 2%

Race of Officer

• White	20 / 77%	YTD 418 / 91%
• Black or African American	2 / 8%	YTD 9 / 2%
• East Indian	1 / 4%	YTD 14 / 3%
• Hispanic	3 / 11%	YTD 16 / 3%
• Asian	0	YTD 1 / <1%

Resident of Whatcom County / Bellingham?

• Yes	12 / 100%	YTD 176 / 90%
• No	0	YTD 20 / 10%

Statistical analysis of police use of force often has a discussion component concerning the population demographics of the involved citizens. The reader is cautioned to remember that from a statistical basis, comparing outlying events to population demographics often will not give the reader an accurate assessment of the situation.

For example, in the month of October 100% of citizens that your officers used lawful force on were residents of either Whatcom County or the City of Bellingham.

However, do not forget that in the month of October your officers used lawful force in only 0.20%, or two-tenths of one percent of incidents. So these incidents are truly outliers and thus may not adhere to population demographics. For example, in October, to achieve lawful objectives lawful force was used by your police department two times against persons of American Indian ancestry, or 0.03%, or around three one-hundredths of one percent in the 5983 incidents for the month. This is nowhere near the city demographic.
