BELLINGHAM, W.N.

BELLINGHAM

Bellingham, the consolidated city, formerly Whatcom and Fairhaven, is situated on the magnificent land locked Bellingham Bay, an arm of Puget Sound. The official count of the city proper, at the time of the consolidation in January, 1904, gave a census of 22,632. Before the end of that year it had increased to nearly 25,000 and it is certain by all the rules of compilation that the count would now reach 27,500, making an increase of 5,000 in eighteen months or an annual increase of nearly 15 per cent. A very substantial and satisfactory growth, since no boom features have entered into the situation. The growth of the county outside of the city is even more pronounced. Large tracts are being subdivided with rapidity; substantial increase is being made to the cultivated area by clearing of logged off lands, while the river bottom lands—the richest on earth—are changing from tangled wilderness to sweet, aromatic pasture grounds for the rapidly increasing herds of cows and flocks of sheep. A recent court decision confirms the contention that the population of the county outside the metropolis exceeds 30,000.

Keeping pace with the necessities of this rural population, industries of various kinds are being enlarged and their facilities for production increased; railway companies are putting on more frequent and better equipped trains, running them faster and at lower rates for passenger and freight transportation. This has required the improvement of roadbeds and rolling stock, until vast sums have been expended in this direction. Steamship service is also improving and several additions are about to be made to the local fleet to provide for the rapidly increasing business. Most noticeable is the vast improvements in public utilities. The country roads rival any in the state and are being extended and improved so rapidly that in a short time they will equal the famous country roads of England.

The remarkable equality of temperature, absence of extreme heat and cold, high winds, tornadoes, and almost all other objectionable and dangerous features of the far eastern and middle states, is becoming well known and Bellingham has probably won more citizens on this account, than any other. Coupled with these advantages, however, are the facts that the City and county have unexampled natural resources; fertility of soil, causing rapid growth and profitable yield; rich mineral fields covering large areas; geographic advantage of immense fishing grounds, resulting in the rendezvous of the largest fishing and canning interests; the largest and best equipped lumber and shingle mills having at least fifty years supply to draw upon; unequalled scenic attractions at numerous points within easy reach and comfortable conveyance. Public schools not surpassed anywhere, with a school system that is the pride of the northwest, and elegant churches covering every denomination of religion. Bellingham is also noted for having the largest and best equipped brewery in the northwest and the most magnificent opera house. It is provided with two separate gravity water systems; two electric light and power systems; two free public libraries; nearly twenty miles of electric street railway; four railway stations; spacious wharfs and docks; fifty fraternal organizations; four women's and three men's social clubs; a general and a sub-postoffice with ample free delivery to all parts of the city; the county has free rural delivery over nearly all inhabited parts; a generously patronized telephone system; many handsome business blocks and costly residences.

Twenty-four passenger and freight trains and eleven regular steamship lines serve the city regularly. Its harbor is dotted with pleasure craft and its wharves lined with ocean going carriers of the city's products of lumber, shingles and fish. The tremendous shipment from this port insures the lowest possible railway and marine rates of transportation, the city being a common point with all western producing centers.

Through the active and progressive management of the Bellingham Chamber of Commerce, a large jobbing trade has been secured and all advantages enjoyed by jobbing centers have been obtained. Unity of action, together with a broad and progressive business spirit, is characteristic of its commercial people, and thrift and industry, with generous and hospitable instincts, are attributes of the common people.

As before stated, no boom features affect the progress of Bellingham, but many industrial projects, some of which will give employment to multitudes of people are being planned, and when matured, these will give a still greater impetus to emmigration and settlement.

STREET AND AVENUE GUIDE

(COPYRIGHTED)

EXPLANATION

The Philadelphia system of numbering houses is used That is, to each block is assigned one hundred numbers

Dock street is made the starting point in Wards 1, 2, 3 and 4 (Whatcom) for all streets running east and west To the first block east of Dock is assigned 100 to 199, to the second 200 to 299, etc

In Wards 5 and 6 (Fairhaven) all houses on streets running east and west receive their numbers from an imaginary street 3 east of 4th Thus between 4th and 5th occur the numbers 400 to 499, between 5th and 6th the numbers 500 to 599, etc

In all streets running north and south the Whatcom Fairhaven line (Consolidation av) is used as the starting point, one hundred numbers again being assigned to a block In Wards 1, 2, 3 and 4 the numbers ascend towards the north; in Wards 5 and 6 they ascend towards the south

BLAINE

The City of Blaine was first settled in 1870 and was incorporated in 1890. It is situated in the extreme northwest corner of the United States (excluding Alaska) and of Whatcom County on Semiahmoo Bay. The Seattle and Montana Branch of the Great Northern Railway passes through the town. It is connected with Seattle and Bellingham by a daily steamboat service. It is a fishing, lumbering and commercial center and has agricultural lands immediately adjacent. Business conditions are good and employment plentiful. The Methodist Episcopal, Free Methodist, Congregational, Baptist, Presbyterian and Episcopal each have large and commodious churches. There are two banks and two weekly newspapers in Blaine. Blaine has a well graded school system and a three year high school course which will soon be increased to a four year course. Two brick and one frame buildings located in different parts of the city are devoted for schools; eleven teachers are required to teach the 500 pupils. The Jenkins Lumber Co., formerly the Monarch Mill, has been greatly improved and now employs between 225 and 250 men. The payroll of the mills and canneries slightly exceeds three quarters of a million annually. The city is governed by a mayor and city council. Exports are fish, hay, livestock, lumber, shingles and some fruit. Tri-weekly stages to Lynden, Great Northern Express. Telephone connection and Western Union and G. N. Telegraph Lines. G. D. C. Pruner, postmaster

PRACTICAL

OUR schoolroom is a miniature business community, no imaginary transactions. Hundreds of our graduates holding good positions is conclusive evidence that our students are practical.

PROGRESSIVE

EVER on the alert to secure the best methods, the best teachers, the best equipment, the best quarters, the best students, we may be said to be progressive.

PERMANENT

WE begin our fifteenth year of successful operation in Whatcom county in our permanent quarters in the Business College Block 403½ W. Holly St. From small beginnings we have gone on gaining steadily, until now we occupy 4,000 square feet of floor space in the above building. Ours is the only school in the Northwest whose quarters were planned and constructed for business college work.

Conversion Specifications

This digital copy of the Bellingham City Directory (1905-1906) was created using the following specifications:

- All scans were performed using an original copy of the directory and flatbed scanners.
- Black and white pages were scanned at 600dpi and saved in the TIF file format using LZW compression.
- Pages which included photos or details that black and white was deemed inadequate to capture were scanned at 300dpi grey scale and saved in the JPG file format using 15% compression.
- Color pages were scanned at 300dpi and saved in the JPG file format using 15% compression.
- Adobe Acrobat was used to create a PDF file for easier viewing including bookmarks for faster navigation.

Conversion Team

Special thanks to the following individuals who assisted in the conversion of this document to digital form:

Niedermeyer, Steven J. – Scanning, image preparation, PDF creation, and quality control
Safsten, Mary – Scanning, quality control
Safsten, Robert – Scanning, quality control

Conversion Facts

Conversion completion date: 3 Apr 2005
Place of conversion: Bellingham, Whatcom, Washington, USA

Conversion Notes

Some damage to the original directory occurred during the scanning process. The outer spine's fabric covering incurred additional splits and one of the pages was partially separated from the binding. The use of flatbed scanners which were nearly flush with the surrounding surface reduced the amount of pressure placed on the directory during the scanning process.
